This talk is about PIM (Processing-in-Memory), which as a solution enables computing to be pushed to the memory, thereby saving data movement. By investigating the current state of PIM research, we hope to provide new ideas for the design of Cloud-Assisted Peer-to-Peer systems.